

ELISE BARRY, MS, CFRE

Since 2012, Elise Barry has served as the Chief Executive Officer of the New Jersey Pharmacists Association, working with pharmacists in multiple practice settings that include independent pharmacies, hospitals, LTC, compounding and industry.

She is an accomplished association executive with a record of achievement in developing and leading high-performing teams, assuming responsibility for initiatives of significant scope, and delivering results with the highest standards of integrity.

Elise is a graduate of Boston College, and she holds a master's degree from Pratt Institute. In addition, she earned a post-graduate certificate in non-profit management from New York Medical College and Fordham University