

Board Candidate – Term through 2024

Karen W.R. Lin, MD, MS

Assistant Dean for Global Health
Rutgers RWJMS

Karen W.R. Lin, MD, MS is a Professor of the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health and director of Center for Healthy Families and Cultural Diversity at Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School. She is the Assistant Dean for Global Health at Rutgers RWJMS, and the only physician who integrates Chinese Medicine principles and acupuncture into clinical family medicine practice at Rutgers Health.

Dr. Lin received B.S. degree at National Taiwan University, Master's degree in Environmental Science at Rutgers University, and completed medical education and Family Medicine residency training at Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School. Dr. Lin is a compassionate physician and a committed leader professionally.

Karen is completing her first term as an at-large trustee and renewing for a second term. She was selected as the NJAFP Family Physician of the Year in 2007.